

Canfield Explains Albany Avenue Arch

Board of Public Works of 1921 Alone Responsible for Its Erection—Architect Betz and Board Members Gave Freely of Time and Result Will be $10,000 Arch for $5,000.

Former Mayor Canfield made the following statement today in reference to the Albany avenue welcome arch which he designated as a welcome and memorial gateway:

"No request has been made to me for any information in reference to the Albany avenue welcome arch and memorial gateway by the present board of public works or any city official. I presume that courtesy has prompted them not to approach me in reference to the matter. The statements issued in regard to the matter are practically correct insofar as they go, but they convey an erroneous impression because they are incomplete.

"The board of public works ordered the erection of the gateway. The board ordered the stone for it. The board selected the site. The board took such action only after due consideration for a long period of time extending over a year and upwards.

"The gateway will not be a hindrance to vehicular traffic. It makes an unsafe place safe. It does not involve any extravagant expense. If everyone interested in the subject would give as much time and thought to it as the board did, there would be very few to register an objection to it.

"Anyone without any special knowledge of architecture knows that to produce such a gateway embodying symmetry and beauty it requires more than lines of artistic proportions. It also demands harmonious tones and coloring. Then a result is produced that is attractive, decorative, architecturally correct and proper, and of real lasting value. The board strived for this at the lowest possible cost, but was advised by the architect and others having special experience that it was absolutely necessary to have it trimmed with a white stone.

"The matter had been pending before the board for over a year. It had decided to erect the Abell street arch first. This was built in 1920. The cobble of which it was built were taken from the bank in the immediate vicinity with the consent of the owner without cost to the city. The board decided that one should be erected at the entrance on Albany avenue and also one on Hurley avenue. They were first discussed in 1919 and were to be welcome gateways and also memorial gateways. When the Abell street gateway or arch was started many citizens registered objections to it. After it was completed no person criticized it to me or to anyone that I ever heard of, and on the contrary many who had opposed its erection reversed their opinion. It would be the same as to the Albany avenue gateway. A month after its completion I think it is safe to say that not over one hundred people in the city would be dissatisfied with it or would regret it had been built.

"There was a demand for these gateways. I was invited to a meeting of the retail branch of the Chamber of Commerce in 1920 and the matter was discussed. Not a single voice was raised against the erection of the gateways. The inquiry was directed to me as to whether the board could not erect the other two gateways that year. Many substantial citizens with large tax-paying interests also expressed themselves at various times as being very favorable to the erection of the gateways.

"During the early part of last year one of the members of the board informed the board that certain brick manufacturers would furnish the brick free of cost for the gateway. The board considered two plans and decided that the one was more suitable for Albany avenue and the other for Hurley avenue. The board decided to defer the actual erection until early fall when the street work would be practically completed, for the season.

"The board considered the matter at many meetings. It desired to erect it at a minimum expense. Yet it was in agreement that it should be worthy of the city or it should not be. Architect Betz had prepared the design and plan and had offered his services free to the board. The plan called for certain white stone to carry out the design properly and to relieve and bring out the brick. The board decided that the design should be reduced to the simplest lines and that all decorative features should be eliminated unless absolutely necessary to remain.

"It was finally decided in September of last year that a special meeting of the board should be held on Albany avenue at the proposed site. All of the board were present except one member who was away from the city. The superintendent, a representative of the engineering department, and Mr. Betz were also present. Mr. Betz explained the design again and also the necessity of including white composition stone. This stone is similar to the white stone of which a certain store on Wall street

"The board decided to include the stone but further decided that it must have just rebuilt its front with a very attractive effect.

"As a result Mr. Betz was directed to eliminate certain decorative features on top of the gateway and to change it in various ways and to eliminate much of the stone. My recollection may not be exact as to the figures mentioned, but he informed me that the stone would cost over $5,000 as designed. The board decided that such amount was too much and would make the gateway too costly. With the eliminations the cost of the stone would be cut in half bringing the total cost of the gateway to about $4,000. As he had acted in the capacity of architect in the rebuilding of the Wall street store in the remodeling of which this stone had been used, he was acquainted at that time with the price of it. We were informed that it could not be obtained through any Kingston concern but was made by a Poughkeepsie company. We were also informed that the ordinary blue-stone would not be suitable for the purpose. Mr. Betz also called our attention to the fact that the gateway would last fifty to one hundred years and should be built well and properly.

"The site was also decided upon with great care. The particular place was selected for various reasons. It was desired to have it close to the city line and there is a curve there. Then it was decided that the curvature of the curve is such at that point as to permit of the best display and presentation of the gateway and that it would be absolutely safe to traffic. Then such place was then a dangerous point because the street was narrow with a depression on each side protected only by a railing. It was decided to fill in these depressions. The gateway was given a width of about 24 feet for vehicular traffic or nearly six feet wider than the Wilbur pavement and about four feet wider than the total width of the roadway at that time. A place of comparative danger would thus be transformed into a place of comparative safety. We were informed that it would require the taking of private land to make it wider. It is of sufficient width. After it is completed, as I assume it will be, no one will reasonably complain of it being dangerous.

"The board spent practically all the morning before making any determination as to these matters after it had considered it for over a year. There was no undue haste or precipitation of action without proper preliminary thought. As it was understood that the stone could be procured in ten days time, the superintendent was directed to order the stone through the courtesy of Mr. Betz because it was understood that he could get a better price. Also an effort was to be made to get certain stone without cost which I understand was done and furnished. Mr. Betz gave much careful thought, attention and time to the matter without any compensation or expectancy of compensation as a matter of civic pride and service.

"Some time shortly afterward the superintendent and the representative of the engineer's office came to my office. They informed me that they had been in conference or communication with the representative of the company from which the stone was to be purchased and that the cost would run several hundred dollars over the $5,000. They had the figures but I cannot recall them exactly. I then called up two of the members of the board whom with myself constituted a majority. The other two members were away from the city. I communicated to the two members with whom I talked the information given me. While they as well as I were disappointed that the stone would cost more than expected and stated they agreed that the gateway should not be stopped for such difference. I thereupon informed the superintendent and he returned to Mr. Betz's office to order the stone with the authority of the board.

"The gateway would not have been started at that time if it were known it could not be completed before winter. The stone did not reach here when expected and it became impossible to complete it. The budget was made up, however, with the completion of the gateway in view and so that it could be done.

"It was designed to be a memorial as well as welcome gateway. At the outside top will appear the words 'Kingston Welcomes You' and on the inside top 'Come Again.' Upon the southwestern part of the easterly main column a bronze tablet is to be fastened somewhat similar to the one upon the Abell street arch or gateway in honor of those who served in the last war from our city, and which would inform or remind the many passing that 1,500 boys from Kingston served our country nobly in the world war.

"The brick was donated and selected for the purpose. The city had materials for the foundation. The ashes for filling were donated. The board expected to use some of

CALL ALBANY AVE. ARCH WASTEFUL

Kingston, April 21, 1922.

Editor, The Freeman:

In a recent issue of The Freeman an article appeared describing the Arch of Welcome being erected on Albany avenue and asking the opinion of taxpayers as to whether the arch should be completed, which would necessitate spending a considerable sum of money, or should it be taken down?

The Ulster Garden Club at its last meeting voted to go on record as being opposed to the spending of more money to finish this arch and to ask the proper authorities to take down what has already been constructed.

The Ulster Garden Club is heartily in sympathy with every project that has for its purpose the beautifying of our city and it feels that these arches do not serve such a purpose.

In addition the arch on Albany avenue is a menace to traffic and it obstructs the view of the road for vehicles in both directions.

There are so many ways in which the money of the taxpayers could well be spent for the welfare and education of its citizens that the erection of these welcome arches seems to us wasteful of public money at this time.

While Mr. Myer is very sorry to move from the section where he has spent three score years most pleasantly he looks forward with happy anticipation to the fact that his new place of residence he will not be compelled in the future to shovel snow from a big corner lot, like the one he is about to leave.

A Spring Supper.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will hold a spring supper on Friday, May 5, in the lecture room of the church.

The lights from the Broadway arch that was to be taken down, some of the stone was to be donated. The labor was to be supplied by the street department. The city was to get a gateway worthy of the city which would be lasting evidence of its progressiveness and also of its remembrance of its war-born. It was to get a gateway worth between $10,000 and $15,000 for less than $5,000. The city's motto, "Guard the Gate," was to be interpreted in respect to present conditions by making a striking and favorable impression upon the thousands of people coming into the city that way through our gate or gateway so that they might carry with us and come again and carry their impressions to others and others and thus create a chain of people talking "Kingston." Then, if handled properly, at least $10,000 worth of free publicity can be obtained by the city in papers and magazines from the gateway. The present board need not assume any responsibility for its erection if they so desire. The past administration indicated that it provided the money for it and will take the entire responsibility for it. If the present board decided to finish it they may put upon the tablet "Erected 1921" and relieve themselves of the same. After it is completed the city and about ninety-eight per cent of its people will be proud of it. Every citizen having an auto will convey visitors from out of town to the gateway and proudly point to it as evidence of what Kingston is and what Kingston does.

ANY TAXPAYER CAN HALT ARCH WORK

Albany Avenue Structure Obstructs Street and So Becomes a Nuisance For Maintenance of Which Responsible Official is Indictable, Writes Citizen.

Editor, The Freeman:

The Board of Public Works—I believe that is the proper title—is to pass upon the building or completion of an arch on Albany avenue, one of the streets of the city of Kingston. What is there to pass upon?

The highways belong to the people. The board is the agent of the public. It cannot consent to a plan which will destroy or interfere with public rights.

Highways are to be open the full width. Sewers, lights, water mains and other necessities under modern conditions are properly placed in streets only under proper regulations so as to not interfere with travel and the right to pass and re-pass upon the roadway or its sides.

What necessity is required for an arch which narrows the street? Would the proposed permanent arch be tolerated on Broadway, Wall street or other streets of the city? The city would be liable in a lawsuit for damages occasioned by the narrowing of the street or obstruction to view of persons approaching the arch. Where does the charter give the public authority power to obstruct streets as proposed?

Any taxpayer can stop this work. The question is also personal to any officer consenting to such obstruction.

The arch is and will be a nuisance and it is well established that a public officer aiding in maintaining a nuisance is indictable. Mr. Gill, the corporation counsel, is a good lawyer. Get his opinion.

People of Old Hurley Call Davises a Menace

Hearing Held on Application to Send Two Colored Girls to State Institution—Both Illegitimate and One Names Uncle as Father of Her Baby.

Life on the Eagle's Nest is not all sunshine and roses nor is it marked by all the comforts and pleasures with which the people who live in the valley are endowed, nor are the Nesters possessed of all the charms of intellect and otherwise as their neighbors, according to testimony given on Saturday before Judge Joseph M. Fowler at county court chambers in proceedings instituted by Miss Martha Davis, the county agent for dependent children, to have two colored Eagle's Nest children named Davises committed to some state institution for mental defectives.

Children Are Like Topsy.

The children whose commitment to some institution is being sought are May, aged 24 years, and Elizabeth, aged 9 years. As disclosed by the evidence, these children, like Topsy, "just grewed." And there is also another little Davis girl, born last December, who is the daughter of May Davis, and she is like Topsy, too.

The Honor Role of Hurley.

Because the good people of Old Hurley believed there was danger of more growth of the Topsy variety, they signed a petition in which they described the Davises, big and little, as "a menace to the community," and asked such official action as would not permit their unrestricted liberty. The petition was presented to the town board, and according to Justice of the Peace Charles A. Snyder, who was not among the petition-signers, he turned over the petition to Miss Martha Davis, the county agent for dependent children.

The petition filed with the town authorities of Hurley which resulted in the proceedings is signed by sixty-four residents of Hurley. The petition states:

"Whereas, we, citizens of the town of Hurley, have at heart the welfare of the whole town and of society in general, we hereby respectfully bring to the attention of the town board of the town of Hurley the following facts relative to the well-being of the locality in which we live:

"Within the town of Hurley, in the neighborhood known as the Eagle's Nest, there reside in the family of one John Hen Davis (colored), his half sister, Belle Davis, and two illegitimate children, May (aged 25), and Lizzie (aged 12). These three colored females are regarded by all familiar with the family to be greatly deficient mentally, and therefore unable to take care of themselves. It is also known that at times they do not receive adequate support from John Hen Davis. Moreover, there was born in October of May Davis a girl baby, Ruth, whose father is unknown.

"Wherefore, we petition the town board that immediate and sufficient action be taken which shall guarantee the putting away in a proper institution of these colored females who are now a menace to the community and who we believe will continue to be such as long as they are permitted their unrestricted liberty."

The petition is signed by the following well known residents of Hurley:

W. A. Warren, M. T. E. DeWitt, T. D. Houghtaling, John P. Woolsey, J. H. Thielapae, Evelyn Snyder, Benjamin F. Dunn, Mary H. Dunn, Mary C. P. Woolsey, J. H. Hasbrouck, Maria D. W. Enjoyed The Church "Feeds."

The Rev. Lawrence H. French, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church, who had been subpoenaed as a witness, said he had had some opportunity to observe the Davises children and also had visited their home. His first visit was in the midsummer of 1921, and he went again a few days after the birth of May's baby, when he had taken out and other nourishing food because he had been told she was not supplied with the kind of food which her condition required. The home and furnishings were poor but clean. There was some shyness on May's part during the conversation, but not such shyness as he had anticipated. Mr. French said he had signed the petition that had been presented to the town board. The Davises children had not come to church except on special occasions when there had been a "feed" afterward, and they certainly enjoyed the feed," he added.

Actions Show Mental Deficiency.

On cross-examination, the Rev. Mr. French said the special entertainments were attended by white and colored children alike, and the white children enjoyed the "feed" just as much as the colored ones. In his pastoral work at various places he had visited many homes of the poor and they were not always clean. He had found that where the minds of the occupants were bright there was a general inclination toward cleanliness, but not always.

May Knew Her Father.

District Attorney Traver conducted the proceeding on behalf of the Ulster county agent for dependent children; the Davises girls and their uncle, "John Hen," were represented by Francis C. Merritt.

Miss Martha Davis and she first heard of the Eagle's Nest children two years ago but never visited their home, which is in the negro settlement on Hurley Mountain known as "Eagle's Nest," until December 3 last when she went there for the purpose of learning who was the father of May's child. May said her uncle, Luke Davis, was the father. The home conditions were poor but clean, she did not object to the poor conditions she found but she did object to the moral situation. The house was well built and consisted of one large room and a bed room downstairs; there may have been a room upstairs. Miss Davis did not know what provisions were in the house. She talked with May Davis and also with her mother, Belle Davis, but Belle made practically no answer.

May, however, said her own father had been a man named Sampson.

The next she saw the children was at her office in the county building on St. Patrick's Day, when they were examined for about two hours. Most of the questions were asked by Miss Green, the stenographer for the county agent. Information on which Mrs. Davis based her application had been furnished to her by Mrs. S. Frank Ten Eyck, Charles A. Snyder and others.

The County Agent's Duty.

There was nothing objectionable in the physical conditions, said Mrs. Davis on cross-examination, except that the house was poorly furnished. She thought Elizabeth, the younger child, was under-nourished. Although she had seen many beautiful children, she never had noticed that colored children were particularly deficient. May had not shown any reluctance in answering questions.

Miss Davis said she did not claim to be a judge of the mental condition of children, but it was her duty to see that children are properly cared for. "If these children had been in my care," she said, "this petition would not be necessary. Not being in my care, it is my duty to bring them to the attention of the proper authorities."

The Petition Disclosed.

Among those who had complained to her of the little child born to May Davis had been one of the justices of the peace, Mrs. Ten Eyck, Matthew T. E. DeWitt and others. "But nearly the whole town complained," she added. "They signed a petition," but she could not tell Mr. Merritt what names were on the petition. District Attorney Traver, thereupon produced the petition which Miss Davis identified, and Judge Fowler received it in evidence.

The fact that both May and Elizabeth were illegitimate was admitted to her mind that moral condition were bad, she said, in addition to the fact that the same condition applied to May's child.

Enjoyed The Church "Feeds."

The Rev. Lawrence H. French, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church, who had been subpoenaed as a witness, said he had had some opportunity to observe the Davises children and also had visited their home. They Satisfy

For Raw Sore Throat

At the first sign of a raw, sore throat, rub on a little Musterole with your finger.

It goes right to the spot with a gentle tingle, loosens congestion, draws out germs, and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blisters.

Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for throat use. 35 and 65 cents in jars and tubes; hospital size, $1.

Combination of Broadcloth Produces Stunning Effect.

Suits Offer Splendid Opportunity for the Use of the Two Materials.

Black and white being used for some of the new models, and, because of the simplicity of its finish, the combination of colors that is produced by other materials. The combination of black and white, as seen in the New York Times, are a great point of putting black and white together, and the result is a stunning effect. It is something that is always becoming to a certain type of person, and for that reason it is always in or out of the fashion, though it happens to be more so just now.

The combination suits offer splendid opportunity for the use of two materials, and with the extra coat or wrap or cape as the case may be, there is a largeness of surface on which to carry out a difference of the principle of using two materials. Perhaps it is the fashion of two materials that helps the costume suit to be popular, and perhaps the reasoning may be just the other way round, but, in any case, there is in this respect a very happy union of ideas.

Another stunning combination is that of a piece of paisley shawl with a dark suit, which is illustrated in one of the drawings. There are many ways in which to make use of paisley material, along with some plain material, for the dull reds and blues in the antique design are always becoming and, when not too much of it is used, it becomes extremely interesting.

This model shows one of the sleeveless coats which are bound to be popular during the spring and summer seasons. They give such a tremendous opportunity for showing the beauty of the wide sleeves without subjecting them to the confining influence of tighter oversleeves, and thereby spoiling the effect of the gown as it was originally intended to be.

THE SCARF FOR SPRING WEAR

Stole Serves as Wrap to Throw Over Shoulders When Subjected to Chilly Breezes.

A long flat fur scarf is an excellent thing to own and helps its owner to be well dressed. You can wear it with a suit. You can wrap it around your throat when a topcoat needs extra warmth. You can wear it in early spring as your only wrap, and you can use it to throw over your shoulders in the evening when, suddenly, you are subjected to chilling blasts of air. These useful flat scarves are good in squirrel, in one of the lighter toned materials in kolinsky, in seal and in some imitation furs which have taken a fancy to the fashion's creations.

The scarves of fur are always in fashion for if they cannot be used in one manner then they can be employed in some other way and an important thus placed gives value in the return of good looks for all occasions.

Cleaning Silk.
Never use a stiff brush to clean silk garments. Use a piece of velvet to remove the dust. Do not use a hot iron to press silk—it will injure the fiber and may ruin the color. Silk stockings should be washed with tepid water and white soap after every wearing and silk undergarments should be frequently washed with the same care. These small items in the care of silk wearing apparel mean prolonged service.

Footwear Styles.
Strap shoes and slippers are to continue popular for spring and summer and there is an increasing leaning to sensible, low heel models for general wear.

Real Success.
That is failure when a man's idea turns him, when he is thwarted by it, but when he is over growing by it, never true to it, and does not lose it by any partial or immediate failure—that is success, whatever it seems to the world.—A. Bennett Abbott.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 24, 1922.

The discovery that there were "boppers" or the like of them as far back as the mid-Victorian era will be less startling now that hopped has been found on "Maud," an Egyptian mummy just arrived at a Philadelphia museum.

Apparently New York hasn't enough shooting galleries for these "crime wave" times. Classes in pistol practice for men, women and girl employees handling money for New York corporations are to be conducted at Governor's Island.

In the last eight months 25,000 Poles have left and only 5,000 have come to this country, while the departing Italians numbered 42,000 and the arriving 33,000. The causes of the outflowing tide assigned by the Bureau of Immigration are prohibition and unemployment.

SEEING GREAT MEN.

Referring to the fact that no little was made of the arrival of Marshall Joffre at a Pacific port on his way home from the Far East—in such striking contrast with the enthusiasm greeting him when he came to this country in 1917—the New York Evening Post explains that America now feels that Europe doesn't amount to much, and says further: "The attitude that 'We won the war' naturally doesn't see much in Joffre, Foch or Haig; the attitude that Europe is a tiresome mess doesn't breed interest in Einstein. It would be refreshing to see a lot of people really anxious to travel 50 miles—as their fathers did—to look at men who will live in world history."

It is true that the American public is "tired of the war." It may be true that a great part of the same public thinks upset and struggling Europe is a wearisome "mess" and regards the United States as the only country that amounts to anything, but this is only a part of the reason why this time Joffre has not attracted crowds and it scarcely a part of the reason why the average American is not now disposed to travel 50 miles to see great men, foreign or native. Perhaps the chief reason is that they can stay at home and still see all the great men—"just as plain"—in the movies. Why travel 50 miles after seeing their life-sized images move, smile and appear to talk on the silver screen and after looking at well-developed snapshots of them in the illustrated papers? The average American's appetite for celebrities is now pretty well appeased before he can argue to take a trip to look upon them in the flesh.

THE LEVIATHAN.

The Leviathan, which is to become the Warren G. Harding, was originally the Vaterland. Before the Germans left the great ship layered at Hoboken they thought they had smashed her machinery beyond repair, but in no very great while the Vaterland, restored and even improved by American engineering genius, came forth as the Leviathan to perform mightily as a war transport. The Vaterland's capacity was 8,000, but the renovated and improved Leviathan reportedly carried nearly ten thousand soldiers to France. The very name of the Leviathan is a record of prodigious American achievement during the war, and no wonder there is reluctance to see it disappear, particularly as there are many other ways in which to honor the President.

The New York Times gives expression to a widespread sentiment when it says: "President Harding may well think twice before permitting the Leviathan to be rechristened the Leviathan in his honor. It is a name closely entwined with our brightest memories of the war. Almost a hundred thousand of our soldiers crossed on this queen of transports. An equal number returned in her when the victory was won. To them, and to those dear to them throughout the nation, 'Leviathan' is a household word. To our allies it is an old familiar. For France the long journey back from a nightmare of terror to hope, confidence and triumph was marked as with milestones by the landings of the Leviathan. Aside from the merely commercial advantage in preserving the old name, there is a historical, patriotic value in 'Leviathan' when the country will deeply regret when it knows what it has lost."

2. Do farming needles really sting?
3. Is there any remedy for black knot on plum trees?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. How many eggs does the woodcock lay? An eagle? Blue jay? and what color and where is the nest? Woodcock lays four eggs usually; Blue jay two, occasionally three; Blue jay from three to six, pale olive greenish or sometimes buffy, with brown spots. Jay's nest is commonly in an evergreen, but a small deciduous tree may serve.
2. Why is the Colorado beetle so free from bird enemies? On account of its disagreeable taste. Near its wing covers are glands that exude a sort of juice on the slightest pressure, apparently much disliked by birds. The beetle is conspicuous in bright stripes that seem to be remembered and associated with unpleasant lessons in investigating it as distasteful birds that once have tasted it.
3. Is there any known reason why wild geese fly in a wedge shape when flocking? The geese is that large birds fly in the V shape, point foremost, because it is somehow easier—offers less resistance to the air, possibly. Often one side of the wedge is shorter than the other, and the geese here is that force and direction of the wind allows one side to be longer than the other.

DAIRYMEN SET MAY MILK PRICE

Will Be Lower Than April On Some Grades and Below Cost Of Production, Says League—Surplus Forbid Higher Price.

The Dairymen's League News Service.

The directors of the Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association, meeting in Utica on April nineteenth and twentieth, voted to offer milk of the Association for sale to the dealers for May at the following prices:

Class 1 milk, that is, milk sold in fluid form, is offered for $1.75 per hundred pounds. This includes both the fluid milk sold in bulk and that sold in bottles.

Class 2 milk, that is, milk used chiefly in the manufacture of cream and ice cream, will be offered for $1.50 per hundred, the same as last month's price. These prices are for three per cent milk at the 201-210 mile zone. Prices to each individual farmer vary according to distances from the market and amount of butterfat contained.

For class 3 milk, that which is manufactured chiefly into condensed and evaporated milk, the price will be twenty cents a hundred above the butter quotations.

For class 4, milk manufactured chiefly into butter and cheese, prices will be determined on market quotations.

The class 1 price of $1.75 is a reduction from $2.20, the price for April milk. There is a five cents a hundred reduction in the class 3 price from the price for April milk.

The other prices for May are the same as prevailed during April.

These prices to the farmer are discouragingly low, being considerably under the cost of production, but there is a considerable surplus of milk which will increase during May, and it is the purpose of the Co-Operative Association to sell a larger amount of pooled milk in class 1 by reducing the price of this class rather than keeping the price up, thus causing the pooled milk to be sold in the lower priced classes.

AGRICULTURE.

HATCHED IN HIS POCKET

Kentucky Man Placed Egg in His Pocket and Forgot It.

Robert S. Porter, a Paris, Ky., business man, told of an unusual occurrence, the truth of which he vouches for.

He said Charles Madison, a Nicholas county farmer, was sitting in the lobby of the Paris court house near a radiator which was giving heat at full blast. Madison, with an exclamation of surprise, suddenly reached into the pocket of his heavy overcoat and found there a newly hatched chicken. As he pulled the fluffy ball out of his pocket he and those who surrounded him were astonished. The chick was alive and chirping.

Madison said to those who ran in from every direction as the word passed that he had placed the egg in his pocket more than a week ago and had forgotten it. The warmth of the pocket and the heat of the radiator had caused the chicken to hatch. Madison then drew from his pocket the shell of the egg from which the chicken had emerged.

The farmer presented the chicken to Deputy Sheriff Gibson of Paris, who will attempt to raise the fowl.

The Right Way.

Motorists on the highway between Greenfield and Pendleton have been having considerable difficulty in getting through a certain bad spot in the road. A few days ago an automobile sunk to axle depths, but, after a titanic struggle, succeeded in backing out. The destination was forward, however, so the driver went to a farmhouse near by and asked a boy whether there was any other road he could take to Pendleton.

"Only road to Pendleton," the boy answered, "Ain't no other way."

"Oh, there must be some other way," the motorist insisted.

"Nope, no other way. Just go on into the hole and pa will be along in a little bit an' pull you out for $4."—Indianapolis News.

Champions the Homely Man.

Do homely men make best husbands?

The merits of the homely husband were upheld by Judge Theodore J. Richter, who has tied and untied hundreds of matrimonial knots.

The handsome man is more likely to become a litigant in divorce proceedings, not because his good looks make him worse, but because they are likely to make his wife jealous, he said. Her jealousy leads to mistrust.

"The handsome man who is constantly nagged by a jealous wife finally gets tired of protecting his innocence. He may think that as long as his fidelity is questioned he might as well go astray."

Judge Richter said that handsome men in a man is often a handicap. Good looks make him conceited and cause him to attach too much importance to the incidentals of his personality rather than upon actual accomplishment.—Detroit News.

Expanded Rubber for Insulation.

A new use for rubber has been discovered in a non-conductor of heat for cold storage pipes and chambers. The work of experimenting with all possible materials suggested for the purpose has been conducted by the national physical laboratory of London and the best results obtained were with rubber expanded by gas with a highly cellular form. It has also the advantage of being light.

MILK A BETTER FOOD THAN MEAT

Dr. Krom Treats Exhaustively Of Its Value Before County Medical Society—Clean Milk Problem Of Education Of Consumer As Well As Producer.

At the recent quarterly meeting of the Kingston County Medical Society held at the Wilkes Inn on Main street, Dr. James Krom of Saugerties read the following interesting paper on milk:

The use of the milk of domestic animals for human food is as old as the human race. The wandering tribes of Asia used their flocks and herds not only as a source of clothing and meat, but habitually used their milk as a most important element in their diet. The ability of the domestic animals to make use of vegetation as food enabled the wandering tribes to support life through the medium of such herds in territory where agriculture was impossible.

Without the aid of the chemist it would always been logical to assume that a food obviously produced by nature for the nourishment and growth of the young must be possessed of superior characteristics. An English scientist says with reference to milk, "Search earth and sky and you will find that only once has nature set out to make a food—something which exists in order to be a food and for no other purpose." It was no accident that made the ideal land for the tribes of Israel a land flowing with milk and honey.

Milk as an essential article of diet is probably used to a greater extent in this country than any other. It is estimated that the amount used daily by the United States averages about 1/2 quart for each inhabitant. One-fifth of this amount is used as food for infants and young children. The annual milk bill for New York city alone is over sixty million dollars. The 55 cities and 172 incorporated villages in the rest of the state increase the total by many millions more.

Recent tests show that a glass of milk is equal in food value to 2 large eggs, or one large serving of lean meat, or two moderate sized potatoes, or two table-spoonfuls of cooked cereal, or three table-spoonfuls of boiled rice, or two slices of bread. Atwater found that 145 grams of milk would create 100 calories. Holt says "There is no food as economical as milk. For children between the ages of 2 and 6 years, the daily ration should be one pint per day as a minimum."

Lusk says, "Milk is the most important single food for adults. It is more economical to produce than meat. If it were a question of one or the other, I think it more important that a man have milk rather than meat. Milk is the cheapest form of protein you can get. It is the most complete and efficient food you can get. Around the dairy farms centers the proper nutrition of a nation."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture states: "Two facts stand out prominently as reasons for increased production and use of milk: First, that milk as purchased on the market usually supplies food material together with growth-promoting elements more economical than either eggs or meat; second, that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of human food. One great law of food conservation is to turn inedible food into edible foods. The dairy cow will utilize coarse materials inedible by humans, such as grass, cornstalks, hay, etc., and turn them into milk which is edible for human food."

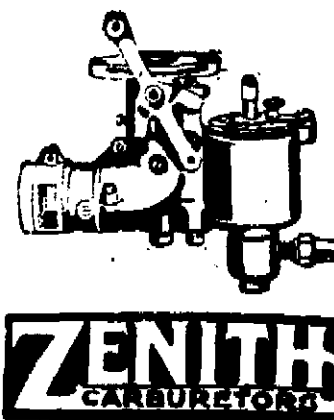

Milk is the most difficult food to produce and distribute to the consumer. It spoils very readily, even when quickly than fruit or berries. It is frequently responsible for the transmission of tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat and other communicable diseases. It is usually consumed without cooking and is accountable for more sickness than any other food.

The problem, then, is to safeguard the various steps in the production, transportation and distribution of milk so that it will reach the consumer in as perfect a condition as possible. Dairy score cards were devised as the best means for educating the dairy farmer in dairy sanitation and for the use of dairy inspectors in determining the sanitary condition of dairy farms.

The official state dairy score card was devised with a view of showing as clearly as possible the necessary equipment and methods for a sanitary dairy. Under the head of equipment is considered the physical condition of the animals, the quality of the food and water, the location and construction of the stables, the clothing worn by the milkers, type and condition of pails and other utensils, provision for cooling milk, and location of milk house and its construction, arrangement and facilities.

Each particular item is taken up by the inspector scoring the dairy and such credit allowed as it just and due. Under the heading of methods are enumerated all those various points which are governed almost entirely by the training and habits of the owner. The proportion of points allotted to methods as compared to equipment is very large and at first thought may seem to be too great. It will be remembered that the physical equipment under which milk is produced counts for little if the method of methods is low. It has been shown that milk of a relatively high character can be produced in stables with a relatively poor equipment if proper care is taken to guard the product from contamination.

During the 10 years following 1900, extensive studies were made of the possibilities of producing sanitary milk on ordinary farms. Chapin and Park reported successful production of milk with extremely low bacterial counts on numerous ordinary dairy farms shipping to New York city. In various Agricultural experiment stations the United States Department of Agriculture made extensive studies of dairy sanitation. Sentiment rapidly forming favor of the proposition that clean milk can be produced under commercial conditions in ordinary barns.

In 1908 North suggested a method of milk production for ordinary dairy farms, and succeeded in interesting the New York Milk Committee in his plan, which resulted in the establishment of a large milk-shipping station at Homer, N. Y. Here for 10 years, from ten to twenty thousand quarts of milk have been produced daily by between one and two hundred farmers, which laboratory tests have shown to contain remarkably small numbers of bacteria. This demonstration lasting over a period of ten years, under daily control of the Bacteriological Laboratory, has shown conclusively that a large group of dairy farmers of the ordinary type can produce milk under sanitary conditions to satisfy all the demands of decency and public health, at the lowest possible expense.

As further evidence of the fact that methods and not equipment are the primary factors in producing clean milk, North transported ten dairy farmers from their homes into a new dairy district, where in ten barns of the ordinary type, entirely strange to them, with no changes in equipment, these men produced milk within the limits of the standard of certified milk for bacteria: 10,000, compared with milk containing many millions of bacteria produced in the same place the previous day by the owners of the premises.

The work of North has been confirmed by the United States Department of Agriculture and many other observers. There remains no doubt that any dairy farmer with the poorest barn and the poorest equipment can produce clean milk by clean methods, under practical working conditions.

The discoveries of Pasteur in 1860 of the fermenting organisms in wine, and the temperature at which they were destroyed gave a great impulse to the study of fermenting organisms in all liquids including milk.

After Koch's invention of a solid culture media whereby species of bacteria could be isolated and studied, he and his followers succeeded in isolating a number of the most important organisms. This was followed by the reporting of a long list of milk epidemics, furnishing convincing evidence of the vital relationship of milk to the public health.

Concurrent with this there was a growing interest among the leaders of the medical profession, including Soxhlet, Jacob, Caillie and others regarding the heating of milk for the artificial feeding of infants. This led through the various processes from boiling to the various methods of pasteurization.

In 1883 Jacob referred to the Soxhlet apparatus for boiling milk. Writing in 1895 he says: "To remove the dangers of intestinal disorders and the sources of excessive mortality and invalidism, nothing has been more successful than the widespread practice of sterilization and pasteurization of cows milk. Both are the logical development of the plan of treating milk by boiling which I have advised for these forty years at least. Raw milk could always be had unadulterated, fresh, and untainted, and as often as it was wanted, it would require no boiling, but such ideal conditions cannot be had so long as cows are tuberculous; scarlet fever and diphtheria are met with in the houses, about the clothing, and on the hands of dairymen and women; and typhoid stools are mixed with the water which is used for washing utensils."

Jacob, who must be recognized as having for many years occupied a position at the head of the medical profession as a specialist in children's diseases, always advocated the bringing of cow's milk to a boil before feeding to children.

Pasteurization consists of the heating of milk to a temperature of from 142 to 145 and holding it at that temperature for a period of 20 minutes, the milk then being cooled to a temperature of 50. Properly done, pasteurization destroys all bacteria in milk but neither improves or harms the milk itself. Properly pasteurized milk has exactly the same taste as raw milk, and while it may raise a slightly less amount of cream than raw milk, the butter fat content and food value remain unchanged. It absolutely safeguards a community from communicable disease conveyed by raw milk.

Two objections are made to pasteurization. It is contended by some that the feeding of pasteurized milk to infants may cause scurvy, and that the process of pasteurization increases the cost of milk. The mortality records of New York city where over 90% of the milk supply is pasteurized, show no increase in the number of deaths from scurvy. Beside some of the latest experiments in vitamins show that unless the cow or the mother get the required vitamin element in their food the child shows the lack. The careful physician will of course in either case supply this lack either to the source of supply or supplement it in the feeding. The cost of pasteurization, however, on a large scale is less than one cent a quart and in many New York state communities properly pasteurized milk is sold at the same price as raw milk. In fact North cites instances where owing to the better keeping qualities dealers peddled only pasteurized milk but on the same wagon had bottles with caps marked pasteurized and others not so marked which they sold for one or two cents a quart less.

The real interest of public health is in the communicable diseases in relation to milk and infant welfare. The diseases with a known or at least a bacterial relation to milk are typhoid, scarlet fever and septic sore throat and diphtheria, together with tuberculosis and the intestinal diseases of children and infants. Pasteurization obviates these.

There is a point however beyond which the health officials cannot go. They cannot follow the milk into the home, and it is possible for milk not properly protected to become a menace to health after it reaches the consumer. Each step from milking to drinking must be guarded if safety is to be assured. The milk must be properly handled and kept cool after it gets into the hands of the consumer. There are many sources of contamination of the cap and top of the bottle after it may have had the best of previous care. Many of us have seen dogs and cats licking the tops of the bottles when left standing where they could reach them. The neck of the bottle and cap needless to say should be washed or wiped off before opening.

It is not out of place to repeat here that as yet the best baby's food comes from the breast of a healthy mother and that no one can improve it. The best substitute is properly modified properly pasteurized cow's milk. The druggist has nothing to take the place of mother's milk nor can he duplicate clean pasteurized milk.

I further want to state that if the average practitioner had spent one half as much time studying how to improve maternal nursing as he spends studying artificial feeding the mortality rate of infants under one year could be materially reduced. The highly specialized physicians in obstetrics and pediatrics are the worst offenders. An investigation by Prof. Fleischer of the University of Minnesota and Prof. Fleischer of the University of California shows that the death rate in artificially fed infants under one year is six times as great as among the breast fed. By a campaign in Minneapolis for intensive breast feeding the mortality rate reduced from 85 to 65 in the first year of the application.

In conclusion, the problem of providing clean and safe milk may be summarized in the statement that in the production of milk there must always enter that variable factor, the human element. There probably always will be producers who find it cheaper and easier to let things slide along in a careless way than to reconstruct their equipment and methods according to sanitary requirements.

Clean milk means clean cows, clean barns, clean pails and clean milkers. The cows must be groomed. The barn must be whitewashed, pails and other utensils must be properly sterilized. The milkers must wear clean garments and clean hands. These requirements in no wise necessitate an investment beyond the means of any individual desiring to market a good product.

The production of clean safe milk is a question of education rather than legislation, of cooperation rather than coercion, of reasonable reward rather than of unfair punishment, of construction rather than destruction. The consumer has as important a part to play as the authorities and he must do his part if the desired result is to be secured.

COLLINS FAMILY
MADE HOMELESS

By Fire Which Visited Their Home in Wilbur Saturday Evening—Mr. Collins Carried No Insurance on His Furniture—House Owned by Lawatich.

A fire which broke out in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Collins, at No. 124 Wilbur avenue, owned by Anthony Lawatich, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John L. Collins and their eight children, about 2 o'clock Saturday evening, an alarm of fire was turned in from No. 36 to which the fire department responded. They found the fire was in the siding on the south side of the house and had started on the second floor from the chimney and worked upward through the roof, badly damaging the attic.

Mr. Collins carried no insurance on his furniture, and sustained damage from the water used in extinguishing the flames. Most of the furniture on the first floor was carried out by the members of the family and neighbors.

The fire itself was confined to the second floor and attic of the house, which is a two-story house of frame construction. Miss Agnes Dunn, the Red Cross nurse, a neighbor of the Collins family took them in for the night, and other neighbors assisted in making comfortable the homeless family until they could locate temporary quarters.

Earlier Saturday evening a still alarm called the firemen to the upper Clinton avenue dump, and at 7:30 o'clock the same evening a slight fire in an auto owned by a member of the Mattice Stock Company playing at the Orpheum Theatre was extinguished before the firemen arrived.

Ecclesiastical Confectionery

A young American tourist stepped into a shop in a Scottish town one Sunday recently to buy some candy for a Scotch lassie of his acquaintance, and as soon as the customer ahead of him had been served he asked for chocolate creams. "I dinna sell chocolate creams on the Sabbath," the old dame behind the counter said, severely. "But," the young man protested, "you sold candy to the woman who has just gone out." "Aye, some ecclesiastical confectionery, but not chocolate creams," the old dame declared. "Some what?" gasped the tourist. "Ecclesiastical confectionery—that is, peppermint drops, pan drops and ginger lozenges," she graciously explained, and added sternly, "but not chocolate creams."—American Cookery.

Nomadism of Gipsies.

Three reasons are generally given for travel—necessity, pleasure and accomplishment. Every gipsy tribe can claim any and all of these three reasons. Except the peasants, who, by the very nature of their occupation, are compelled to remain in the same place, the rest of the people of every nation, whether artisans, merchants, or artists, are continually searching for some device or excuse to take them away from the places in which they happen to be. The gipsies are merely a lower stratum of this nomadic world, and because of that they have until recently used only primitive means of transportation and travel. But even they are now beginning to use automobiles instead of horse-drawn wagons.

Shocks Caused by Moods.

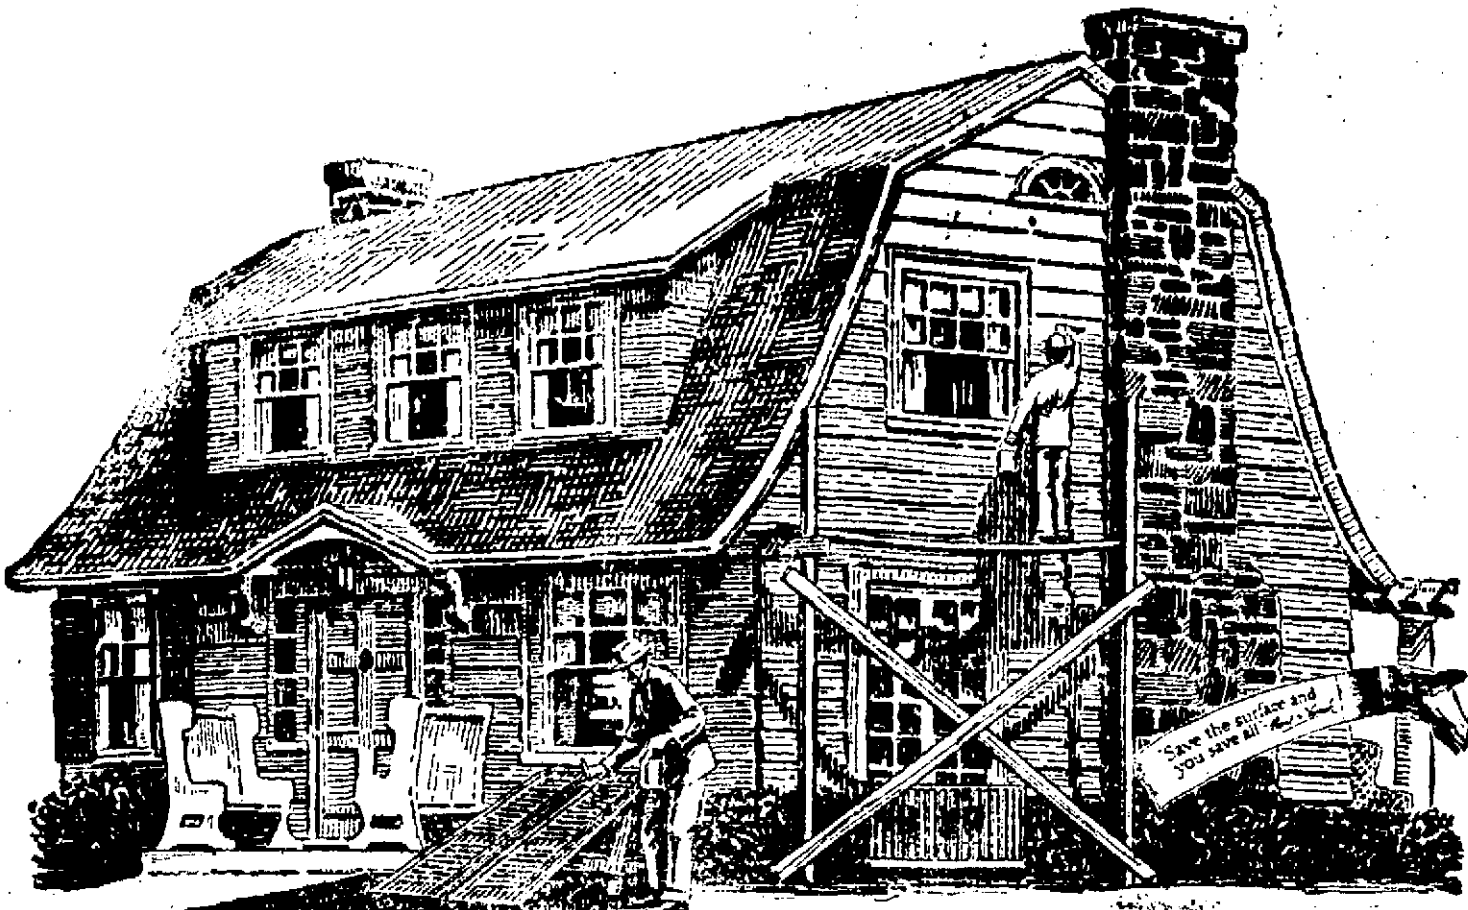

Shocks cause moods. Every shock calls up all the memories caused by former shocks of the same nature and excites the passion it is connected with into activity. Moods can result only from a shock on some sense. A stronger mood will always supplant a weaker one. Sometimes a shock of high intensity, as anger, will follow a mood of lower intensity, but greater persistence, such as love, is in progress. The anger mood looks out the love mood, and only anger memories and imaginations rule the mind. At length these grow weak and disappear and the love mood, with its memories and imagination, return to thought.—Exchange.

BEAUTY AND PROTECTION
Plus Lowest Cost Per Square Foot

The retail price of Lucas Tinted Glass Paint is as high, if not higher, per gallon than any other house paint on the market.

And yet it is actually the lowest priced paint you can buy. There are three important elements that determine the actual cost of paint—so consider them carefully.

First—Thorough and complete priming in a Lucas factory reduces the pigment to such a fineness that Lucas Tinted Glass Paint has a covering capacity of nearly double that of ordinary paint. One gallon of Lucas Tinted Glass Paint will cover 350 to 400 square feet, two coats, while ordinary paint will cover but 250 to 300 square feet, two coats. This immediately reduces the cost of Lucas Tinted Glass Paint to a lower cost than ordinary paint.

Second—The exceptionally high percentage of pure raw linseed oil used in Lucas Tinted Glass Paint produces a full, even gloss of enduring beauty. Then, the hours of heavy milling that blend the various elements into one perfect paint product assure longer life and greater durability. Thus, Lucas Tinted Glass Paint costs very much less per year of service.

Third—In painting the average house the paint represents about one-third of the cost, and the labor two-thirds. So that it costs just as much in labor to put on a paint that will last only two or three years as it does to put on a good paint that will give good service five years or longer.

Thus, paints costing less than Lucas Tinted Glass Paint are actually more expensive. Lucas Tinted Glass Paint, in Beauty, Spreading Qualities, Protection, and Durability, is not an expense. It is an investment.

Step into our store. Let's talk it over.

COLONIALS WIN OPENING CONTEST

Saturday Afternoon at Athletic Field by 7 to 2 Score—McAuliffe in Good Form—Artie Rice in Rack of Control.

After tight pitching by Bill McAuliffe and the playing of Artie Rice featured the Colonials' first game of the season Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Field, when the Kingston club scored a win over the Blue Sox of Tarrytown by a 7 to 2 score. Rice's hitting drove in five of the Colonials' seven runs.

Up until the seventh inning it was a fairly good contest, neither team scoring until the fifth. When the Tarrytown southpaw, had the Colonials under control for the first three innings but in the fifth the Kingston players solved his delivery and began hitting winners across the park. One run in the fifth, two in the sixth and four in the seventh gave the Colonials a seven run lead.

McAuliffe pitched the first seven innings for the Kingston team, and held the visitors to four hits, three of which were made to the first two innings. Mac was in several tight places in the first three frames, but pulled himself out in good style. Lehr reiterated McAuliffe to start the eighth. The newcomer went in cold and before he could get warmed up two runners had crossed the plate. Dick Williams did the box work in the last frame.

McAuliffe scored the first run for the locals in the fifth frame. With one down, Moore reached first when Dahn lost "Kid's" grounder. McAuliffe forced Moore at second but beat the throw to first. Fitzgerald and Coyte followed with singles and McAuliffe made the circuit.

Two more runners got around in the sixth. With Deegan on third and Glazer on second, Rice drove both runners home with a long single to right. Artie tried to make second when Cunningham threw to the plate to catch Glazer but was thrown out.

The Kingston team put the game beyond doubt in the seventh. Four runners making the rounds, Deegan and Glazer were sent to first when each received a walk. Cunningham dropped Schwab's drive to right and Deegan scored. Rice then drove one to right on which he made the complete circuit. Glazer and Schwab scoring ahead of him.

The Blue Sox counted twice in the eighth frame. Lehr walked Pollock to start the inning. Dahn drove a hit drive over second. But Rice made a good one-handed catch and doubled Pollock off first. Gross singled and went to second when See was walked. Both runners were allowed to steal without any attempt being made to stop them. Maher singled to center and sent his two team mates home.

Original "Merry Andrew"

The term "merry Andrew," which is today used more or less sarcastically to designate someone whose appreciation of his own sense of humor is not shared by the multitude, has its origin in a great wag of the time of Henry VIII, and who was also a very learned physician. His name was Andrew Berde, and he died in 1545. According to the historian Henne, the original "merry Andrew" frequented markets and fairs "where a confus of people used to get together, to whom he prescribed, and to induce them to flock thither the more readily, he would make humorous speeches, couched in such language as caused mirth and wonderfully propagated his fame." Later on the expression was applied to any clown or buffoon, and more specifically to a jester in attendance on a traveling mountebank.

Volcanic Deposits

There have been reported the results of physical, chemical and biological studies of the ash deposits in the Caribbean country of St. Vincent laid down at the time of the eruptions of the Soufriere in 1802 and 1808. The deposits, which range in depth from 14 to 18 inches, consist of coarse, sandy types. They show small contents of organic carbon and nitrogen, are extremely deficient in calcium carbonate and contain moderate amounts of available phosphate, acid and potash. They give evidence of a moderate activity of putrefactive bacteria. Nitrogen-fixing organisms of the Azotobacter type are present. The soil possesses appreciable nitrogen-fixing and ammonifying power, but no nitrifying power. Considerable progress has been made in the conversion of these sterile and deposits into fertile soil.—Washington Star.

Marines Guarded Moils in 1778

The first authentic record of marines acting as mail guards deals with the marines of Connecticut from the city of Hartford, says the Paterson (N. J.) Morning Call. It occurred in May, 1778, when reinforcements, together with mail dispatches and a chest containing 500 pounds specie, were sent to Fort Mifflin, which had been captured from the British a short time before. Owing to the difficulty of securing reliable guards a detachment of eight marines was sent to watch over the treasure and dispatches. According to a letter from Jesse Root to Silas Leano these marines were "well equipped and well spirited" and executed their task in excellent fashion.

Treat the Stairs Kindly

If, in ascending stairs, the foot is placed upon the step or tread with a sliding motion or "scuff," needless wear is brought upon the paint or finish, and the wood of the step itself, for particles of sand or grit clinging to the shoe will grind through the paint and into the wood. Instead, the foot should be placed upon the step as though one were walking upon the ball of his foot, which causes the least wear upon the paint and wood of the step. In descending a flight of stairs, of which the treads or steps are narrow, if the toe be placed as close to the front of the step as safety permits, or if the body be in a sideways position, the risers will not be bruised by striking the heels against them.

Playing Cards at Christmas

In olden times it was a custom to play cards at Christmas, and during the festive season ladies would travel some distance in order to "take a hand" with a friend. There are records which offer numerous examples of this custom, and relate how they went equipped with money for the chances of the game. Card-playing was the subject of special legislation. An act of the time of Henry VII, against unlawful games, forbade the working classes from playing cards except at Christmas. In many a lordly mansion cards and dice games were played for money during the "12 days of Christmas" and at no other season of the year.

Get Out and Get Busy

The man who indulges in self-pity is a dejected man before the light begins. There is no exercise of the human mind that is so debilitating, so fatal to honest resolution, as that of nourishing the feeling that one has an impossible job, and is of all men most miserable. Have you a hard duty to perform? Perform it with resolution, and get it done, and encourage your soul with the glow of triumph. Who promised you an easy life? And who but a coward and a weakling cares for an easy life? Put on a smoke consumer and get out and get busy in the sunlight.—Exchange.

THREE WOUNDED IN CRAP GAME

Shooting at Three Landing Results in Hospital Receiving Three Brickyard Victims Whose Wounds Are Not Serious.

It was at a crap game behind Roscoe's boarding house, Three Landing, between 2 and 3 o'clock Sunday morning, when three negro brickyard hands were shot. They are at the Benedictine hospital and gave their names as Green, Green, James Lee and Iver Morgan. One was shot in the buttock, one in the chest, near the shoulder and the other in the arm. Dr. John Larkin and Dr. Cannon gave them the necessary surgical attention and nothing serious is apprehended.

Sherriff Smith, Under Sheriff Haulbeck, Deputy Sheriff, Grand Juror, State Trooper Cunningham and another trooper went to the scene Sunday morning, and having been sent to the sheriff's office about ten o'clock, and made an investigation. They questioned all persons who might know about the affair but were unable to learn who did the shooting or find any revolver, even searching the clothing of the wounded men at their boarding shack, and questioned the three wounded men for over an hour at the Benedictine Hospital but each denied doing any gun firing or having any knowledge of who did the shooting.

It was learned the crap game was being held behind a building where dancing was going on and that the negroes were playing crap by the aid of lighted candles stuck into the cracks of furniture placed on the ground. While the game was on one of the negro African girl players was shot in the hip and another player, who caused one of the other players to remark:

"Say, brother, it's about time that you come across with those absent ten cents."

Then a rejoinder came from another negro "that will see about it."

Immediately thereafter the candles went out and the shooting began with the result that the three negroes were wounded and later taken to the Benedictine Hospital.

On Sunday afternoon three other negroes were rounded up near the West Shore station by Sergeant Haulbeck and questioned thoroughly by him and later at the sheriff's office as to what they knew about the affair at Three Landing. They claimed they knew nothing as to who did the shooting and were kept at the county jail until this morning and released.

NOTICE TO MOVE SERVED ON P. O.

Samuel Present, New Owner of Kennedy Building on Broadway, Which Houses D. W. W. Post Office, Children Rent Inadequate—Matter Taken Up With Washington.

Will the downtown post office have to seek new quarters? That is the question that has been raised by the serving of a notice on the post office department to vacate the premises in the Kennedy building on Broadway, owned by Samuel Present, the new owner of the building, who claims the rent he receives from the government is inadequate.

Postmaster W. C. DeWitt has forwarded the notice and what information he has in the matter to the post office department at Washington, but no decision has been reached in the matter as yet. According to Postmaster DeWitt the government cannot be removed forcibly from the building.

At the time the post office was removed from the Strand to the present location the post office department claimed that by accepting the proposal made by the Kennedy estate, owners of the building, that the government has what is practically a lease, which does not expire until April 1, 1923. Mr. Present claims there is no lease.

If the downtown office has to move the question of where it will be located is one that will interest every user of the downtown station. It is not expected that the question will be settled for some time yet.

FIREMEN AGAIN CAUGHT NAPPING

Blaze in Kopp's Rosendale Home Does $300 Damage—Is Smothered Before Firemen Get Into Working Clothes.

Sunday afternoon about five o'clock Joseph Kopp, who resides on James street, Rosendale, and who runs a mushroom plantation in the old Kopp's returned to his home from the mushroom plantation and almost immediately discovered that an oil stove in his home had exploded, setting fire to the house.

The fire alarm was sounded but before a Sunday afternoon and the members of the Rosendale Volunteer Fire Department were alerted in their Sunday clothes they did not respond immediately. The fire was smothered before the members of the fire department had time to change to their day clothes. The oil stove was thrown out in the yard and the flames extinguished but not until considerable damage had been done. The loss will probably reach $300.

EMMA TURNER SUSTAINS STROKE

Miss Emma Turner, veteran member of the public school faculty of Kingston is at the Benedictine Hospital seriously ill with a stroke sustained Sunday as she landed from the steamship after a Mediterranean trip with the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Putnam.

Miss Turner was seized with the stroke in New York City and was hurried to Kingston Sunday and conveyed to the Benedictine Hospital where she is under the care of Dr. Frank L. Eastman. Her condition, while very serious, was reported as being slightly improved today.

It is said that this is the third stroke sustained by Miss Turner. The other two were slight ones, sustained while on the Mediterranean trip.

NEW DE NEMOURS AWARD SMALLER

Hall-DeFeve-Humphrey Commission Report Gives Powder Company $25,204, $25,746 Under First Award.

The commission appointed by Judge Harbrouck for the trial of the claim of the E. I. duPont de Nemours Company against the city of New York, composed of Charles R. Hall of New York City, former Congressman Frank J. LeFevre of New Paltz and Dillon R. Humphrey of Nanuet, today filed its report, making an award to the company of $25,204, which is $25,746 less than the first award which was made in the powder company by another commission.

The Hall-DeFeve-Humphrey commission makes an award of $75,032 for the real estate taken by the city of New York, and an award of $15,264 for the damage to an established business. In addition to the award, the commission recommends that an allowance be made to the powder company of $4,071.51 for expenses necessarily incurred in the trial of the real estate claim, and $38,700 for expenses incurred in the trial of the business damage claim.

The claim of the duPont de Nemours Company was tried originally before the commission composed of John D. Schoonmaker of this city, the Hon. Seaman Miller of New York City and the late Hon. George R. Wellington of New York City. That commission made an award to the company of $30,000 for the real estate taken and $24,000 for the business damage sustained. The award was confirmed, but on appeal by the city of New York to the appellate division of the supreme court, the latter body reversed the judgment and directed a retrial of the claim before a new commission.

Judge Harbrouck appointed Messrs. Hall, LeFevre and Humphrey commissioners for the trial of the case on April 7, 1920. The commission organized on December 15 of that year with Mr. Hall as chairman, and on December 10, 1921, an extension of eight months was granted by Judge Harbrouck in which to make and file a report.

The property owned by the duPont de Nemours Company formerly was owned and operated by the Hudson River Manufacturing Company. It is situated at Winchell's Falls in the town of Olive and the Esopus creek formerly flowed through the property and furnished power for a mill which was used for the manufacture of wood flour. The Hall-DeFeve-Humphrey commission's states in its report that the award is based on the assumption that the claimant's dam was limited to twenty-four feet, which is the height of the old dam of the Hudson River Manufacturing Company, as the determination of the appellate division on the appeal from the first award.

The early part of the trial before the Schoonmaker-Miller-Wellington commission was conducted for the city of New York by William McEl. Speer, who was succeeded by William Harmon Black, who is still special counsel in charge of Ashokan matters. The second trial was conducted by Mr. Black, with William H. Grogan, of counsel. Throughout the litigation the duPont de Nemours Company has been represented by Van Etten & Cook of this city.

Sabbath Devotional National Sin, Says Pastor.

At the Franklin Street Church on Sunday there was a large attendance at both the morning and evening service. At the evening service the subject, "The Lord's Day," brought forth much discussion. Mr. Clarke began by saying that when the Pilgrim fathers sought a landing on the coast of New England they came to Park Island and in their log we find this minute, dated December 26, "This began our civilization in the new world. It was on the Lord's Day, becoming an Easter Day of hope and promise to all mankind."

On Sunday the kind friends were communicated to other comrades and they rejoiced together and were comforted and if the actions of the Pilgrims were imitated still "I am sure our institutions would have more hope for triumph for them than many anticipate at this hour."

He declared that the dedication of the Lord's Day has become to some extent a national sin and is rapidly becoming a national peril. In closing he urged his congregation not to sleep as do others, but to watch and be sober.

The annual fair of the church will be opened on Tuesday evening, April 24.

Tea Dance Enjoyable Affair.

Although many of the young people attending college had returned from spending their Easter vacation in town, there was a gratifying attendance at the tea-dance given at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Saturday afternoon by the Women's Auxiliary of the Kingston City Hospital and all present enjoyed the dancing and light refreshments to the full. The hall was artistically decorated with festoons and magnolia buds in large clusters, while the table holding cakes, etc., was elegantly daintily with its pretty white basket containing a full-flowering geranium, and its silver candlesticks with their yellow candles, carrying out the Easter color. Members of the Auxiliary acted as hostesses, at this successful affair which must have netted a neat sum.

CLOTHING AND BEDDING NEEDED

The Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross is asking the people of Kingston for temporary aid for a family which has had the misfortune to lose all of their belongings by fire. Clothing for a man, woman and eight children, ranging in age from 14 years to 6 weeks, and bedding, all in such condition that it can immediately be used, is what is needed at once.

Any persons having such clothing or bedding to donate are asked to send the same to the Red Cross office at 44 Main Street. If further information is desired communicate with the Red Cross office, telephone 153. The need is the more urgent, in that the weather remains so cold.

DEDICATION OF HOSPITAL

Kingston Masons who made the trip Saturday to the dedication of the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hospital at the Masonic Home at Ulster were enthusiastic over what they saw. Fifty thousand Masons from this state were in attendance and a parade two miles long, 16 to 20 men abreast, with thousands of former service men in uniform was an impressive feature. There were no other uniforms. Masons of all classes assuming Blue Lodge status for the occasion. Sixteen bands furnished music.

The hospital contains 230 beds, with the most modern appointments and furnishings.

AT THE THEATRES.
"The Little Minister" Coming Next Week.
"Wedding Bells" starring Constance Talmadge is the attraction at Keeney's tonight and Tuesday. All sorts of things have caused divorces, but did you ever hear of hobbled hair and measles doing it? It's a bona fide comedy.

Billy Bouncer's Circus is the headline Keith vaudeville offering at the Kingston Opera House the first half of this week presented with four other exceptional high class novelties, a bill again full of promises of delightful entertainment. The photoplay attraction is Pearl White in "Without Fear," the story of a mushroom millionaire and a society bud's scandalous episodes.

Norma Talmadge is programmed at the Auditorium in one of her greatest successes "By Right of Purchase" a revival of a story in which this popular star was supported by Eugene O'Brien. A comedy and a serial chapter play "The Blue Fox" are added features. Tuesday a Gasnier production with all star cast "Silent Years" a story of the Northwest Mounted Police is the feature attraction.

A special presentation of Sir James M. Barrie's greatest play "The Little Minister" is programmed at Keeney's this coming Monday and Tuesday.

Tonight at the Orpheum Theater the Mattie Stock Company will present the three act comedy drama entitled "Love, Courtship and Marriage." There will be a new program of motion pictures and vaudeville will be introduced between the acts. There will be matinees daily with two performances each evening. "Love, Courtship and Marriage" will be the attraction for Tuesday and Wednesday with an entire change in the program for the last half of the week. The vaudeville includes John O'Malley, "The Irish Thrush," in old and new songs. Today's feature, "Reckless Chances," with J. P. McGowan.
